Listing Of Nip Cities To Be Bombed Challenge To Japanese Powers

WASHINGTON, July 28—Japan's rejection of the three-power surrender offer today set the stage for the final act in a colossal Allied war of nerves and bombs against the Japanese.

The next move in the far eastern drama may be Russia's. It would logically be the next great psychological step by the Allies in their effort to persuade Japan to quit before utter destruction.

Japan's immediate rejection of the peace offer from Potsdam was expected.

Was anticipated by the great stretch of the imagination that the present militaristic Japanese leaders would deliver themselves over to the Allies for almost certain trial and punishment as war criminals.

The major anticipation was that the surrender offer would give the war-weary people of Japan ammunition to start pressure on their leaders—pressure that could become great enough to force the present leaders out of office.

Now that the war of nerves is underway on a grand scale—accompanied by relentless bombardment of the Japanese homeland—the Allies are expected to use every possible means to make the Japanese people realize how futile it is to continue the war.

The U. S. 20th air force put a punch into the Potsdam ultimatum a few hours after it was issued by listing the names of the next 11 Japanese cities which will be destroyed by bombs.

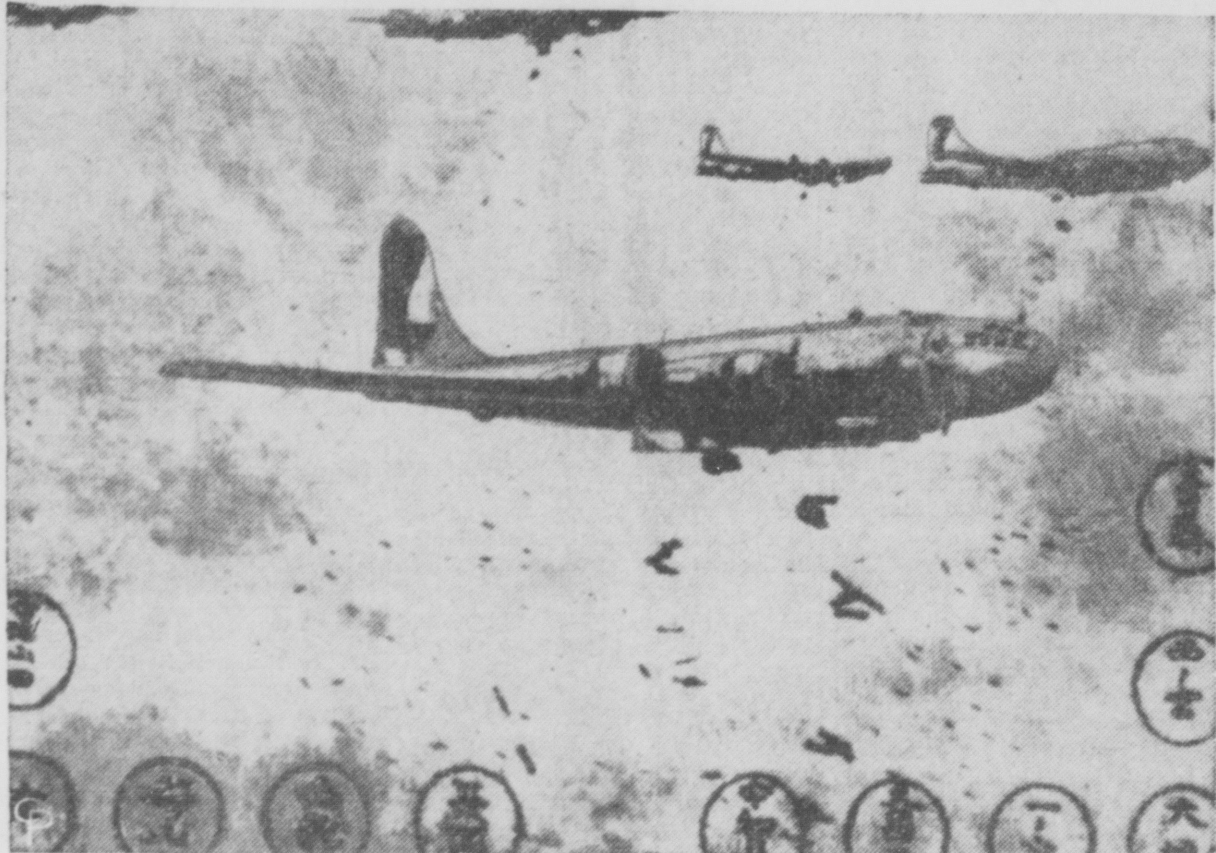

It was an unprecedented move in an unprecedented war for one belligerent to tell another where it would strike next. It was a dramatic challenge to the Japanese power to resist the powerful forces of superpowers which spearhead the war against Japan's home islands.

Plenty To Think About

At breakfast yesterday, thinking Japanese citizens could ponder the terms of the ultimatum issued by the United States, China and Britain with the obvious knowledge and acquiescence of Russia. By nightfall of the same day hundreds of thousands of those same Japanese were confronted with the leaflets notifying them where the Superforts would drop their next lethal loads.

PLANES OUT TO FINISH FLEET

Hyuga Believed To Be First Battleship Sunk Directly By Aerial Bombs

By Earnest Hoherecht

United Press Staff Correspondent
ABOARD ADMIRAL MCCAIN'S FLAGSHIP OFF JAPAN, July 28—The blackened hulk of 30,000-ton Japanese battleship Hyuga lies on the bottom of the inland sea today and swarms of American and British planes are out to finish off the rest of the imperial fleet around her.

The Hyuga was plastered with 1,000-pound bombs and was burning fiercely when the Allied airmen left her on July 24. When they roared back to the attack at dawn today they found the great ship's decks awash and her superstructure burned out.

It was believed to be the first battleship ever sunk directly by aerial bombs. The Hyuga was anchored in a protected site in Nasaka Jima harbor off Kure and had to be attacked with bombs instead of torpedoes.

Since daybreak, the dive bombers and torpedo planes of this carrier force have pounded away at the Kure naval base in a determined effort to polish off the remaining battleships and cruisers of the Japanese fleet.

The enemy's remaining carriers were so badly shot up earlier this week that they probably won't have to be bombed again.

Japanese airfields in the Miho-Yonago area also are under attack by Allied fighter squadrons sent out to pin down the enemy air force and destroy their fighters on the ground.

ITALIAN POWS TO SEND SCARCE GOODS TO ITALY

WASHINGTON, July 28—The War department has confirmed reports that Italian war prisoners in this country have been permitted to send ration-free and postage-free food packages once a month to their families in Italy.

A department spokesman said the program was authorized on the theory that since Italy must be fed it will save the U. S. taxpayer money to allow the prisoners to use their own funds to buy the food.

British Are Surprised By Naming Of Nine Former Members To New Cabinet

LONDON, July 28—Prime Minister Clement Attlee called a private meeting of Labor's newly elected 393 parliament members today to define the Labor party's policy.

Attlee, who was expected to leave for Potsdam later in the day accompanied by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, was to preside over the meeting at Beaver Hall and will be formally elected as leader of the parliamentary labor party.

Other Labor party leaders also were scheduled to speak. Sir Edward Bridges, secretary to the cabinet, and Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, formerly Churchill's military advisor, will accompany the new prime minister to Potsdam.

King George VI received the old and new government ministers at Buckingham palace this morning.

First came the retiring members of the defeated Churchill administration to hand in their seals of office and to take leave of the king. The ministers came at five-minute intervals with Lord Simon, ex-lord chancellor arriving first at 10 a. m. He was followed by ex-foreign secretary Anthony Eden.

Then came Lord Woolton, ex-president of the council, Sir John Anderson, ex-chancellor of exchequer and Lord Beaverbrook, ex-lord of the privy seal.

COMMUNISTS TO RESUME FORMER PARTY STATUS

NEW YORK, July 28—The Communist Political Association became the Communist party again today and opened its doors to anyone willing to support the party's principles and pay dues.

A statement issued from a special national convention now in session indicated that control of the party would remain in the hands of a three-member secretariat which two months ago replaced Earl Browder, American Communist leader for the last 16 years.

The convention repudiated Browder's policy of labor-capital cooperation and announced a new "vigorous policy of action."

BIG 3 SLATED TO OPEN FINAL SESSIONS TODAY

POTSDAM, July 28—The Big Three was scheduled to resume its conferences today, with British Prime Minister Clement Attlee replacing the defeated Winston Churchill. Indications were that the meetings have reached the final decision stage.

(London observers said Attlee probably would leave for Potsdam today.)

The conference's conclusion is believed to be only two or three days away, and all three delegations are guarding to the utmost any final decisions reached.

In all probability, the final communiqué will not be issued until Premier Stalin has returned to Moscow and President Truman is safely enroute to Washington.

If there has been any discussion of Russia's possible entry into the Japanese war, observers believed that the verdict would not be revealed until the fact had been accomplished.

Potsdam officials felt assured that the British government changes will not break the continuity of the Big Three's planning.

GERMANS GET NO SOFT TREATMENT HOWLEY STATES

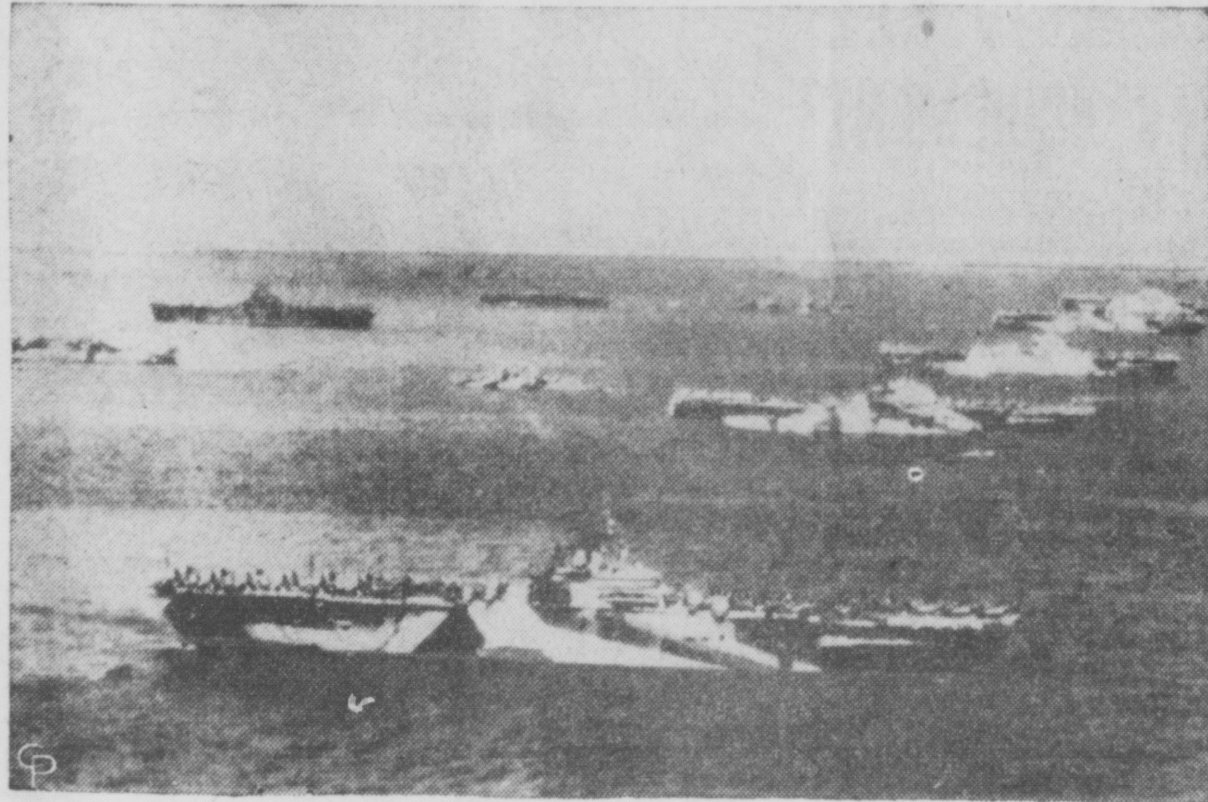

BERLIN, July 28—Americans in Berlin have taken a hard and realistic attitude in dealing with the German civilian population, and no crocodile tears are shed over their hardships, American military governor Col. Frank L. Howley said today.

Any rumors that Americans are giving Berliners a "soft" treatment are false—the Americans remember Normandy and the fact that the Germans started the war, Howley said. "Whatever happens to these jokers, let us not shed any crocodile tears."

Howley, a former Philadelphia advertising man, talked with correspondents for an hour, discussing the problems of Allied control of Berlin. The organizing phase has brought excellent results and the second phase—that which finds Russian, French, American and British experts getting together to decide which sewer must be fixed next—is starting, he said.

B-29s And Other Planes To Be Displayed At Lockbourne Base

For the first time since its establishment more than three years ago, Lockbourne Army Air Base will be open to the public Wednesday in observance of Air Force Day.

Open house will be conducted from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Wednesday to commemorate the 38th anniversary of the founding of the Army Air Forces. On that day, the citizens of this area will be able to view first hand the Army planes currently making headlines in the war against Japan as well as the various types of equipment necessary to "Keep 'Em Flying."

On display will be such well-known aircraft as the B-29 Superfortress, B-17 Flying Fortress, B-24 Liberator, P-51 Mustang, P-47 Thunderbolt, C-46 and C-47 transports, AT-11 and AT-6.

FLIER BRINGS IN GRASS FROM HONSHU ISLAND

ABOARD ADM. MCCAIN'S FLAGSHIP OFF JAPAN, July 28—(Delayed)—Lt. (jg) Frank Smolen returned from a fighter sweep over Japan today with a bunch of grass to prove he had been there.

Smolen, whose home is in Unionville, Conn., collected his specimens in the vicinity of Miho airfield on the northern coast of Honshu island where he and other Navy pilots of this Task Force 38 carrier went in to strafe enemy planes.

As the result of this feat, his shipmates now claim he is the first American aviator of the war to touch his plane on Japan and return. He is also said to be the first pilot ever to make "grass roots" heights on a strafing run.

It is doubtful if he was more surprised than mechanics who plucked wads of grass, including the roots, from the undersides of his plane after he landed on his carrier.

"I was making a run on parked Japanese planes," Smolen said. "I dove from 6,000 feet and went low to make it a good job. The first thing I knew, I felt a bump and seemed to be thrown upwards."

United Nations Charter Expected To Be Approved By U. S. Senate Today

WASHINGTON, July 28—The senate was expected to ratify the United Nations charter today with President Truman's assurance that congress will have a hand in deciding what troops this nation will pledge to the keeping of future peace.

Mr. Truman addressed a special message to the senate to clear up that point, the most controversial question to arise in a week of debate on the treaty setting up a new world peace organization.

His message, radioed from Potsdam, Germany, was scheduled to be read to the senate today.

Informed sources said it contained a promise that the President intends to let congress decide by majority vote of both houses the terms under which this nation will pledge armed contingents for the security council to use in putting down aggression.

The message was designed to allay senate fears on two counts: 1. The possibility that the President would seek by executive agreement to ignore congress and arbitrarily give the council control over any portion of American military might.

2. The possibility that agreements between the security council and member states on military quotas must be ratified as treaties by a two-thirds vote of the senate.

Debate during the past week developed arguments on both points. Some senators argued that the President would have no right to make such commitments through executive agreements. Others argued that the agreements would not be regarded as treaties because:

1. The house of representatives has an equal duty with the senate in the disposal of troops.

2. The security council is not a sovereign state with power to make a treaty with other nations.

The way for charter ratification at the end of six days of debate was cleared last night in a session which lasted until 7:14 p. m.

Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky called the senate back into session at 10 a. m. today to make certain that the (Continued on Page Two)

CHURCHILL MAY BECOME LEADER OF OPPOSITION

LONDON, July 28—Winston Churchill, according to the London Daily Mail's political correspondent, will take over the active leadership of the Conservative opposition in Commons and will not, as has been suggested, retire to write his memoirs.

The Mail said Churchill intends to return to the routine he followed before becoming prime minister in 1940, when he combined his literary and political work.

JAP INLAND SEA LITTERED WITH WRECKED SHIPS

New Trail Of Destruction Blazed By Greatest Carrier Strike

HALSEY BACK IN ACTION

Third Fleet Leader Believed To Have Accomplished Three-Fold Purpose

By United Press

Two thousand carrier-based planes left Japan's inland sea littered with wrecked and blazing ships today as Admiral William F. Halsey's Third fleet returned to pounding the Kure naval base.

In history's greatest carrier strike, American and British fliers roared at dawn through flak and fighters to blaze a new trail of death and destruction across waters already marred by the hulks of 308 enemy ships smashed in the first Allied onslaught last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dive bomber pilots reported spotting the 30,000-ton battleship Hyuga lying on the bottom of Nasaka Jima harbor, outside Kure, her decks awash and her superstructure burned out.

The Hyuga, and 22 other warships comprising the last major fighting force in the imperial navy, were hit by allied bombs and rockets on Tuesday.

Preliminary reports from the great battle fleet indicated that Halsey's fliers had finished today the job that they began Tuesday—the complete neutralization of the Japanese fleet.

Every major enemy warship was believed sunk or knocked out of action at least temporarily, if not for the duration.

Japan's hoarded fighters came up at long last and wild battles swirled in the smoke-filled skies. The enemy fighters met Allied planes over the Bungo straits, separating Honshu and Kyushu islands, and followed them through the Kure flak barrage.

Later in the attack, enemy fighter opposition appeared to be dwindling.

In the greatest sea-going transfer in naval history, Halsey's fleet—while travelling under a blackout—was met by ships under Rear Adm. D. B. Beary and took aboard over 56,000 tons of ammunition and supplies.

Halsey Gives Report
The two-day interval also allowed Halsey to report on the Kure strikes of Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the twin blows, Third fleet fliers sunk or damaged 308 enemy ships including 26 warships. Twenty-two warships and the hull of the unfinished cruiser Asio were hit on Tuesday and three more—a gunboat, a destroyer, and an unidentified carrier—were nailed the following day.

The Japanese also lost 370 aircraft destroyed or damaged, 156 destroyed and 214 damaged.

That raised the total to 725 combat and merchant ships and 928 planes damaged or destroyed by Halsey's fleet since July 10. Thirty-two American planes and 35 pilots and air crewmen were lost in Tuesday's attack, bringing the losses since July 10 to 78 planes and 80 men. British losses totaled 10 planes and 12 men.

MORE SHOWERS ARE PREDICTED FOR WEEKEND

Relief from a week-long heat wave came Friday night and Saturday morning in the form of light thundershowers, and still more showers are predicted by the weatherman.

The drizzling showers, starting about 3 a. m. Saturday, caused temperatures to drop. Pickaway county farmers felt relieved to see the rain, sparse as it was, falling on their crops. Many crops had been suffering from the heat and dry weather.

Maximum temperature Friday was 89, and a low of 69 was registered for early Saturday morning. A total of .03 inches of rain was recorded through 8 a. m. Saturday.

United Nations Charter Expected To Be Approved By U. S. Senate Today

Two thousand carrier-based planes left Japan's inland sea littered with wrecked and blazing ships today as Admiral William F. Halsey's Third fleet returned to pounding the Kure naval base.

In history's greatest carrier strike, American and British fliers roared at dawn through flak and fighters to blaze a new trail of death and destruction across waters already marred by the hulks of 308 enemy ships smashed in the first Allied onslaught last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Halsey Gives Report
The two-day interval also allowed Halsey to report on the Kure strikes of Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the twin blows, Third fleet fliers sunk or damaged 308 enemy ships including 26 warships. Twenty-two warships and the hull of the unfinished cruiser Awa were hit on Tuesday and three more—a gunboat, a destroyer, and an unidentified carrier—were nailed the following day.

The Japanese also lost 370 aircraft destroyed or damaged, 156 destroyed and 214 damaged.

That raised the total to 725 combat and merchant ships and 928 planes damaged or destroyed by Halsey's fleet since July 10. Thirty-two American planes and 35 pilots and air crewmen were lost in Tuesday's attack, bringing the losses since July 10 to 78 planes and 80 men. British losses totaled 10 planes and 12 men.

MORE SHOWERS ARE PREDICTED FOR WEEKEND

Relief from a week-long heat wave came Friday night and Saturday morning in the form of light thundershowers, and still more showers are predicted by the weatherman.

The drizzling showers, starting about 3 a. m. Saturday, caused temperatures to drop. Pickaway county farmers felt relieved to see the rain, sparse as it was, falling on their crops. Many crops had been suffering from the heat and dry weather.

said 100 Army Mustangs from Iwo Jima struck the Tokyo area while the carrier planes were hitting Kure.

It was believed that Halsey has achieved his three-fold purpose: To beat down the enemy's air force; to strike the hitherto-immune northern areas of Japan; and to silence the Japanese warships whose big guns might have played havoc with an invading fleet.

With these three aims accomplished the possibilities of an early peace were believed to have been greatly increased.

A navy spokesman also revealed that naval search planes sank three more Japanese freighters and strafed three schooners and an enemy-held harbor on China's Shantung peninsula.

Nips Strike Okinawa

The Japanese, in turn, said their planes struck at American-held Okinawa last night sinking one Allied surface vessel and damaging two others.

A Chinese communiqué said today that Japanese and Chinese forces were engaged in a fierce hand-to-hand battle inside Kweilin, former great American airbase city in Kwangsi.

Radio Tokyo said today a fierce air-sea battle was raging off the Malayan peninsula as Allied troops for the fifth day persisted in attempts to invade Luket Island.

The Japanese Domei agency claimed enemy suicide planes had sunk "one Allied cruiser and heavily damaged another which was probably a converted aircraft carrier."

The second landing attempt was reported to have started Thursday with Allied troops going ashore in "rubber boats and small craft."

TWICE AS MANY CARS NEEDED TO HAUL '45 WHEAT

COLUMBUS, July 28 — Ohio's 1945 wheat crop will need twice the number of freight cars available to haul the yield to grain terminals, W. W. Cummings, secretary of the Ohio Grain, Mill and Feed Dealers, said today.

Cummings advised farmers to store as much grain as possible in their bins, barns and silos until more transportation is available. He said the state had only one-half of the 37,125 freight cars needed to transport the grain.

Cummings estimated that this year's wheat yield would be approximately 55,688,000 bushels, or about 20 per cent over last year's crop.

CALIFORNIA HIT BY KAMIKAZE, BACK IN ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 28 — The battleship California was added today to the Navy's list of U. S. warships publicly revealed to have been victims of Japanese suicide plane attacks.

The 36,000 ton battleship, which is 24 years old, was hit by a suicide plane Jan. 9, 1945, during the battle of Lingayen Gulf. Six officers and 39 enlisted men were killed, three more were reported missing and 155 were wounded.

The California is now back in action, the Navy added.

Deaths and Funerals

PEARCE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine M. Pearce, 46, 313 West Corwin street, will be held at the First U. B. church, Main street, Tuesday at 3 p. m., with the Rev. J. E. Huston officiating. Interment will be in Jackson township cemetery.

Mrs. Pearce, ill since December, died at her residence at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

The body will remain at Deffenbaugh funeral home where friends may call Monday and Tuesday until time for the funeral services.

REV. T. D. SCOTT

The Rev. T. D. Scott, 87, uncle of Frederick W. Scott, Circleville, died Wednesday at 10 a. m. at his home in Springfield.

He is a former resident of Circleville. Funeral services will be held Monday at 11 a. m. in Springfield at the North street A. M. E. church.

Amami O Shima, where Yank planes have been blasting Japanese installations for weeks, is second in size to Okinawa, among the 140 isles and islets of the Ryuky chain. It is 150 miles closer than Okinawa to the Japanese home island of Kyushu, says the National Geographic Society.

8, 10 VETERANS RETURNING HOME EACH WEEK HERE

An average of 8 to 10 servicemen are being discharged weekly and are reporting to the Pickaway County selective service board for reclassification cards, the members of the board said Friday.

During the past week ten men were reclassified by the board. They were Arthur J. Lemaster, route 2, Ashville; James G. Scott, Soldier's and Sailors' Children's home, Knightstown, Indiana; Chester V. Kempton, 361 East Second street, Chillicothe; Albert W. Crosby, 435 Half avenue, Circleville; Carl A. Tobin, Derby; Frederick E. Davidson, route 3, Circleville; Jay M. All the officers and men of Lockbourne will turn out at 2:15 p. m. Wednesday to participate in a huge military parade on the base parade grounds. On the reviewing stand will be Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, Governor Frank Lausche, Mayor James Rhodes, Carole Landis, Jimmy Dunn, Lloyd Nolan, Peggy Ann Garner, George Jessel, and others.

Feature of the review will be formal presentation of medals to four Lockbourne airmen by Captain Rickenbacker. WCOL will broadcast the decoration ceremonies.

At the conclusion of the parade, the Hollywood stars will stage a variety of entertainment for soldiers and civilian visitors.

Several exhibitions of the use of Air Corps equipment have been planned. The efficiency of Army fire fighting apparatus will be demonstrated in a special exhibition showing the rescue of airmen from a burning plane at 2 p. m.

Visitors will be given a chance to observe a simulated skip bombing attack and the explosive effects of the oil-jelly bombs now being used on the Japs as well as magnesium incendiaries, smoke bombs and chemical land mines. This exhibition is scheduled for 12 noon.

The base swimming pool will be the scene at 4 p. m. of an exhibition of water safety techniques, including the use of the life raft and various emergency kits.

Air Force Day will be officially opened with a church service for all faiths at 9 a. m. in the base theatre. To be broadcast over WCOL, the service will honor the airmen who have given their lives in this war.

few remaining speeches could be completed and a vote taken before the weekend recess.

Chairman Tom Connally, D. Tex., of the foreign relations committee filed the ratification resolution which under senate rules cannot be acted upon until the day after its introduction.

Barkley wanted to get unanimous consent to vote by 5 p. m. today but was blocked by Sen. Wayne L. Morse, R. Ore. Morse refused to accept any agreement which might possibly tend to limit debate on the charter.

There were still at least eight potential speakers as the final session began. They included Sens. Robert A. Taft, R. O., William Langer, R., N. D., Styles Bridges, R., N. H., Chapman Revercomb, R., W. Va., Olin D. Johnston, D., S. C., David I. Walsh, D., Mass., and Morse. None was expected to raise serious arguments against the treaty.

During yesterday's debate the senate heard a moving appeal for ratification by Sen. Walter F. George, D. Ga., whose son Marcus was lost while flying submarine patrol duty over the Atlantic two years ago.

In a voice choked with emotion the grey-haired southerner urged the senate to accept the charter so that, in the words of Lincoln at Gettysburg, "these honored dead shall not have died in vain."

Earlier Sen. Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn., one of the strongest supporters of a league to keep the peace by force, criticized the new organization because "it does not go far enough in its grant of authority and power to the international organization."

Stating that he would vote for the charter regardless, Ball pointed out that the security council will be relatively impotent until member nations ratify a second agreement establishing quotas of military forces to be placed at the council's disposal.

He also called attention to the fact that charter ratification does not automatically accept jurisdiction of the court of international justice.

threat the most logical question is whether thinking Japanese can continue to believe the lies and propaganda of their leaders about Japan's military abilities. The United States will be flaunting its overwhelming superiority in the eyes of those leaders who apparently must sit by helplessly—despite advance notice—while Japanese cities are laid waste.

'Face' Saving

That is part of the psychological warfare game now being waged against the Japanese. In a country where "face" means so much it is thought unlikely that the military leaders can long endure such open slaps by their opponents in the full view of their people.

Washington is still a hotbed of rumor and speculation on the possibility of an early Japanese surrender as well as the type of decisions the Big Three have made at Potsdam relative to the war against Japan. Such rumor is also accompanied by considerable uncertainty, even in high official quarters, both about what the Big Three may be planning and even more on what to expect from the Japanese.

It was obvious that even high state department officials did not know in advance about the three-power proclamation delivering the Allied ultimatum and terms for a Japanese surrender. They had previously been upset by an OWI broadcast offering the Japanese the benefits of the Atlantic Charter and no dictated peace if they would surrender. The state department was not consulted on that.

As for what the Japanese may do, one high official expressed his outlook this way:

"I wouldn't be surprised to be awakened in the middle of any night to be told that the war is over; but neither would I be surprised if we had to fight many, many months to a bitter end. It is impossible to predict what the Japanese will do. Those far apart alternatives are indicative of how little inkling we have of what they might do."

stroyed or damaged 308 Japanese ships and 370 planes. Today they are out to complete the job by wiping out the last heavy units of the enemy fleet.

Fighter-bomber pilots flying out through excellent weather report "good hunting" over Japan, but they said their quarry was shooting back.

Lt. (jg.) Gelvin H. Hatfield, 18, Houlton, Me., had his goggles shot away in one sweep, but he returned uninjured.

Another pilot brought his plane back with a flak hole the size of a water bucket in its wing. He said Japanese flak gunners in this area were getting so much practice they were becoming "pretty good."

Besides the heavy flak, American and British pilots met fierce airborne opposition over Bungo straits between Kyushu and Honshu, where the Japanese tried to intercept and break up our raiding formations.

CRIME INCREASE OF 8.4 PER CENT IN '45 REPORTED

WASHINGTON, July 28 — Crime increased 8.4 per cent during the first six months of 1945 as compared with the same period last year, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported today.

Reports from 392 cities with a total population of more than 51,000,000 show that increases occurred in seven of eight principal crime classifications, according to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Increases were found in burglary, 12.1 per cent; aggravated assault, 11.3 per cent; robbery, 10 per cent; rape, 9 per cent; larceny, 7.9 per cent; auto theft, 4.6 per cent; murder and non-negligent homicide, 4.3 per cent. Manslaughter by negligence decreased 1.6 per cent, Hoover said.

Increases over the first six months of 1939 in cities of more than 100,000 population included 46.2 per cent for aggravated assault; 35.7 per cent for rape, and 14.5 per cent for automobile theft.

When a huge deep-sea game fish, such as a marlin or tuna, is hooked, it often hits a 45-mile-an-hour speed in attempting to escape. Special reels fitted with high-speed anti-friction ball bearings permit the spool to revolve at 4,500 revolutions per minute to keep pace with the sea giant.

cause Attlee pulled no sudden surprises, but chose solid workhorses as cabinet keymen.

However, this feeling probably was due more to reaction from the dizzy pace since Labor's astounding landslide victory, rather than to any actual disappointment regarding the newly chosen men.

Certainly there was no surprise in the selection of Ernest Bevin, husky and capable minister of labor under Winston Churchill, for the important role of foreign secretary.

There was slight surprise that Herbert Morrison, named leader of the house of commons and appointed lord president of council, didn't receive higher cabinet recognition.

However, his appointment as house leader signified he will be assigned the all-important task of whipping through the house—the new government's sweeping domestic program including nationalization of certain industry.

Attlee, like Churchill, retained the posts of first lord of the treasury and minister of defense. He had been lord president of council and deputy prime minister in the coalition government.

Fifty-one-year-old Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade under Churchill, was named chancellor of the exchequer. This corresponds to secretary of the treasury in the United States.

Sir Stafford Cripps, 56, one of the most highly respected men in Labor's ranks, became president of the board of trade. Cripps, who was minister of aircraft production at the end of the coalition government, now holds a post which corresponds to the U. S. secretary of commerce.

Arthur Greenwood, 65, who held the minister without portfolio under Churchill until he resigned without explanation, was appointed lord privy seal.

Sir William Jowitt, 60, who was minister of national insurance under Churchill, was named lord chancellor. As presiding officer of the house of lords he will be created a peer, causing a by-election.

in his constituency of Ashton-Under-Lyne.

Attlee made no mention of the deputy premiership, which he held under Churchill, and it was believed that he might be dropping the post from the list of portfolios and that other ministries might also be abolished.

He left several key posts unfilled, including first lord of the admiralty, secretary of state for war, minister of labor, and secretary of state for India. He said further announcements would be made in due course.

It was possible that other ministerial appointments—which with junior offices total almost a hundred—might be delayed until Attlee concludes his work at Potsdam. At any rate, they were not expected before Attlee's return for the opening of parliament next Wednesday.

Bevin, the Somerset farm boy who worked his way up to power by helping organize the powerful transport and general workers union, has been marked for the foreign office post ever since his masterful speech on foreign affairs at the last Labor party conference.

Intimates have praised his grasp of foreign affairs and said he probably was more deeply versed in them than any other Laborite except Attlee.

Nicholas Biddle, president of the Pennsylvania Bank of the United States, in 1834 conceived a plan to corner the cotton supply in America, forcing the price to European buyers up one cent a pound. The plan failed, but had it succeeded the cent a pound increase would have amounted to some 11 or 12 million dollars — a sum large enough to cover the United States' deficit trade balance for imported manufactured goods at that time.

My Friends:

Tuesday, July 31st, is the primary election at which time you will decide who will be the next Mayor. It has been my ambition to be Mayor of Circleville.

This City has many prospects. It is located in the middle of a great farming section. Plenty of fine highways and three railroads. Everyone knows that people are judged by their reputation; that also applies to our City. With the facilities we have there is no reason why Circleville should not be the most prosperous City in proportion to its size in the State.

If I am elected Mayor I will assure you that I will do my utmost to make this a City to be proud of.

The men that I appoint will have to perform their duties or be removed. They will have to be honest, courteous, and efficient. This applies to any department that comes under the Mayor's jurisdiction.

ASHVILLE

T/S Gervaise Peters, who has been visiting with Ashville friends the past week, returned Saturday to the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Walter Peters, at Marietta, Ohio.

With Harry Wellington pitching four hit ball, a team of local players defeated the Lockbourne A. A. B. Squad softball team at Lockbourne Thursday 1 to 0. The Lockbourne team had won over 20 consecutive victories prior to Thursday's game. Jim Toole led the local attack with three hits.

Work on the detasseling of some 200 acres of Hedges hybrid seed corn began Monday with 12 Jamaican laborers helping with the work.

Mrs. Maxine Leist and Miss Elizabeth Cromley were Thursday evening guests of Mrs. Stanley Bowers.

Ashville plays Model Dairy in the Sunday afternoon league at Community Park beginning at 2:30. Manager Luckett announces that he has signed some new players in an attempt to strengthen the locals.

Stanley J. Bowers has been promoted to division chief of the personal property tax division for the state of Ohio. The appointment is effective Aug. 1. Departments under Mr. Bowers' supervision include the corporations section, individuals section, trusts and financial institutions section, and valuation section.

The electric clock at Sam Scott's which shows both fast and slow time has attracted considerable local attention. The clock saves the inevitable question so often asked in public places, "Is that clock on fast or slow time?" by showing both times.

MONESSEN, Pa. — When Health Officer Albert Marchione received a suspicious-looking box via the mail several bomb experts were called in to test its contents. After ascertaining that it contained no high explosives, Marchione opened the package and found a corsage made from cigarettes, sent him in appreciation by a local civic organization.

30 GALLONS GAS MAY BE GIVEN ENLISTED MEN

WASHINGTON, July 28 — The OPA is considering giving 30 gallons of gasoline to both discharged officers and enlisted men, Sen. Hugh B. Mitchell, D., Wash., said today.

Under present regulations discharged officers are given a gallon a day, up to 30 days, for their terminal leave before discharge. Enlisted men are not given the leave and consequently get no gasoline.

Mitchell told OPA that "it seems entirely unjust and inequitable that privileges should be extended to one group of our soldiers when they return to civilian life and be denied to another group."

War-Wearry Public May Force Resignation Of Leaders Of Military Group

threat the most logical question is whether thinking Japanese can continue to believe the lies and propaganda of their leaders about Japan's military abilities. The United States will be flaunting its overwhelming superiority in the eyes of those leaders who apparently must sit by helplessly—despite advance notice—while Japanese cities are laid waste.

'Face' Saving

That is part of the psychological warfare game now being waged against the Japanese. In a country where "face" means so much it is thought unlikely that the military leaders can long endure such open slaps by their opponents in the full view of their people.

Washington is still a hotbed of rumor and speculation on the possibility of an early Japanese surrender as well as the type of decisions the Big Three have made at Potsdam relative to the war against Japan. Such rumor is also accompanied by considerable uncertainty, even in high official quarters, both about what the Big Three may be planning and even more on what to expect from the Japanese.

It was obvious that even high state department officials did not know in advance about the three-power proclamation delivering the Allied ultimatum and terms for a Japanese surrender. They had previously been upset by an OWT broadcast offering the Japanese the benefits of the Atlantic Charter and no dictated peace if they would surrender. The state department was not consulted on that.

As for what the Japanese may do, one high official expressed his outlook this way:

"I wouldn't be surprised to be awakened in the middle of any night to be told that the war is over; but neither would I be surprised if we had to fight many months to a bitter end. It is impossible to predict what the Japanese will do. Those far apart alternatives are indicative of how little inkling we have of what they might do."

stroyed or damaged 308 Japanese ships and 370 planes. Today they are out to complete the job by wiping out the last heavy units of the enemy fleet.

Fighter-bomber pilots flying out through excellent weather report "good hunting" over Japan, but they said their quarry was shooting back.

Lt. (jg) Gelvin H. Hatfield, 18, Houston, Me., had his goggles shot away in one sweep, but he returned uninjured.

Another pilot brought his plane back with a flak hole the size of a water bucket in its wing. He said Japanese flak gunners in this area were getting so much practice they were becoming "pretty good."

Besides the heavy flak, American and British pilots met fierce air force opposition over Bungo straits between Kyushu and Honshu, where the Japanese tried to intercept and break up our raiding formations.

CRIME INCREASE OF 8.4 PER CENT IN '45 REPORTED

WASHINGTON, July 28 — Crime increased 8.4 per cent during the first six months of 1945 as compared with the same period last year, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported today.

Reports from 392 cities with a total population of more than 51,000,000 show that increases occurred in seven of eight principal crime classifications, according to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Increases were found in burglary, 12.1 per cent; aggravated assault, 11.3 per cent; robbery, 10 per cent; rape, 9 per cent; larceny, 7.9 per cent; auto theft, 4.6 per cent; murder and non-negligent homicide, 4.3 per cent. Manslaughter by negligence decreased 1.6 per cent, Hoover said.

Increases over the first six months of 1939 in cities of more than 100,000 population included 46.2 per cent for aggravated assault; 35.7 per cent for rape, and 14.5 per cent for automobile theft.

When a huge deep-sea game fish, such as a marlin or tuna, is hooked, it often hits a 45-mile-an-hour speed in attempting to escape. Special reels fitted with high-speed anti-friction ball bearings permit the spool to revolve at 4,500 revolutions per minute to keep pace with the sea giant.

cause Attlee pulled no sudden surprises, but chose solid workhorses as cabinet keymen.

However, this feeling probably was due more to reaction from the dizzy pace since Labor's astounding landslide victory, rather than to any actual disappointment regarding the newly chosen men.

Certainly there was no surprise in the selection of Ernest Bevin, husky and capable minister of labor under Winston Churchill, for the important role of foreign secretary.

There was slight surprise that Herbert Morrison, named leader of the house of commons and appointed lord president of council, didn't receive higher cabinet recognition. However, his appointment as house leader signified he will be assigned the all-important task of whipping through the house—with its top-heavy Laborite majority—the new government's sweeping domestic program including nationalization of certain industry.

Attlee, like Churchill, retained the posts of first lord of the treasury and minister of defense. He had been lord president of council and deputy prime minister in the coalition government.

Fifty-one-year-old Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade under Churchill, was named chancellor of the exchequer. This corresponds to secretary of the treasury in the United States.

Sir Stafford Cripps, 56, and one of the most highly respected men in Labor's ranks, became president of the board of trade. Cripps, who was minister of aircraft production at the end of the coalition government, now holds a post which corresponds to the U. S. secretary of commerce.

Arthur Greenwood, 65, who held the minister without portfolio under Churchill until he resigned without explanation, was appointed lord privy seal.

Sir William Jowitt, 60, who was minister of national insurance under Churchill, was named lord chancellor. As presiding officer of the house of lords he will be created a peer, causing a by-election.

Nicholas Biddle, president of the Pennsylvania Bank of the United States, in 1834 conceived a plan to corner the cotton supply in America, forcing the price to European buyers up one cent a pound. The plan failed, but had it succeeded the cent a pound increase would have amounted to some 11 or 12 million dollars — a sum large enough to cover the United States' deficit trade balance for imported manufactured goods at that time.

T/5 Gervaise Peters, who has been visiting with Ashville friends the past week, returned Saturday to the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Walter Peters, at Marietta, Ohio.

With Harry Wellington pitching four hit ball, a team of local players defeated the Lockbourne A. A. B. Squad softball team at Lockbourne Thursday 1 to 0. The Lockbourne team had won over 20 consecutive victories prior to Thursday's game. Jim Toole led the local attack with three hits.

Work on the detasseling of some 200 acres of Hedges hybrid seed corn began Monday with 12 Jamaican laborers helping with the work.

Mrs. Maxine Leist and Miss Elizabeth Cromley were Thursday evening guests of Mrs. Stanley Bowers.

Ashville plays Model Dairy in the Sunday afternoon league at Community Park beginning at 2:30. Manager Luckett announces that he has signed some new players in an attempt to strengthen the locals.

Stanley J. Bowers has been promoted to division chief of the personal property tax division for the state of Ohio. The appointment is effective Aug. 1. Departments under Mr. Bowers' supervision include the corporations section, individual section, trusts and financial institutions section, and valuation section.

The electric clock at Sam Scott's which shows both fast and slow time has attracted considerable local attention. The clock saves the inevitable question so often asked in public places, "Is that clock on fast or slow time?" by showing both times.

NOTICE TO THE VOTERS!

My Friends:

Tuesday, July 31st, is the primary election at which time you will decide who will be the next Mayor. It has been my ambition to be Mayor of Circleville.

This City has many prospects. It is located in the middle of a great farming section. Plenty of fine highways and three railroads. Everyone knows that people are judged by their reputation; that also applies to our City. With the facilities we have there is no reason why Circleville should not be the most prosperous City in proportion to its size in the State.

If I am elected Mayor I will assure you that I will do my utmost to make this a City to be proud of.

The men that I appoint will have to perform their duties or be removed. They will have to be honest, courteous, and efficient. This applies to any department that comes under the Mayor's jurisdiction.

MAN OF HOUR IN BRITAIN

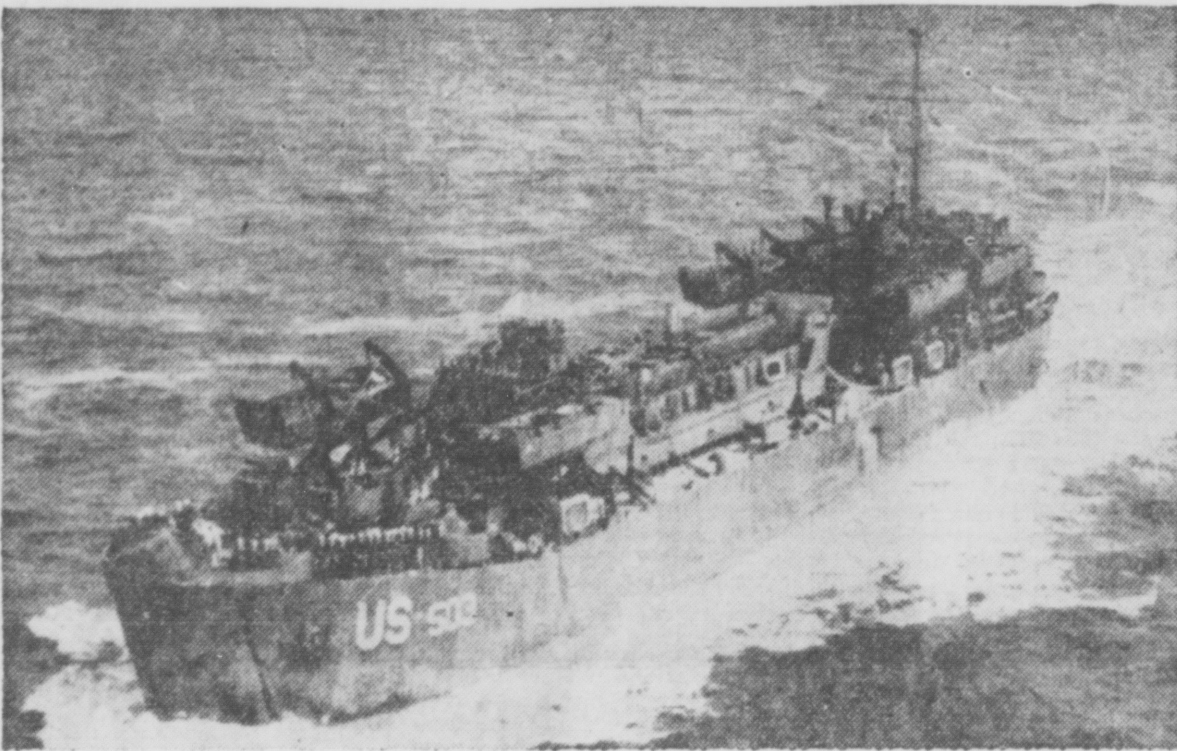

MAJ. CLEMENT R. ATTLEE, 62-year-old leader of the British Labor party which scored an overwhelming victory in the British election, is the man of the hour in Britain. Attlee's victory forced out Winston Churchill as head of the government. Following custom, King George VI will appoint Major Attlee as prime minister and First Lord of the Treasury. Attlee, who has been deputy prime minister in Churchill's coalition cabinet, will sign for the British Empire the documents drafted at Potsdam, taking his place with President Truman and Premier Stalin as spokesman for the king-emperor and the people of Britain. MODEST HEROES
AMERICANS used to be known as braggarts, and there may have been a time when a lot of them deserved such a reputation. But you don't find much of it in this war. The fellows who have done notable things, or endured things no less notable, are more likely to conceal them than brag about them. Here is an interesting case in point, concerning two brothers. When they came home and were sought by a news man who knew their record, this is what happened.

John was limping, but when he went with his family to meet his brother Chuck, he wasn't wearing the four battle stars or the purple heart ribbon, and he didn't want to talk about his record at all. When reporters insisted, he just passed them on to Chuck to hear something worth while. And Chuck himself was no more communicative. All he would say was: "John really must have had it tough. I worried about him all the time. I always knew the Pacific theater was the worst."

And so you find it among the war veterans in general. They may be a little more outspoken about their records as they grow older, but there is little of such a tendency now. It is a fine trait, yet unfortunate in a way. If the veterans won't talk about their war experiences, but try to conceal them, how are other people going to find out? And these records are well worth knowing, now and hereafter.

HIGH PRICES
BLACK markets by their very nature tends to run into big money but they are phenomenal in Germany just now. Recent quotations from Berlin have shown butter selling at the incredible price of $188 a pound, with sugar quoted at $30 a pound, coffee $140, tea $190, and a loaf of bread $10. A single cigaret costs $4, and a cigar $5, while a suit of clothes will run to $1,000 or $2,000.

And do the Allied nations pity them, and pour out sympathy and virtuals to ease their hardship? Not by a jug full! There is no more such softness among the Allies—with special reference to us Americans—as there was after the last war. The American attitude now is, "they have made their bed and must lie in it." Or in more literal terms: they have slaughtered and impoverished their neighbors; let them take the consequences.

A language critic says people shouldn't say they have an "inferiority complex" when they're just modest.

Somebody complains that there's so much news in the paper, he can't get it read; so probably people will have to stop doing things.

McLean House Offered For GIs' Capital Club Red Cross Society Now Occupies Old Mansion

By HELEN ESSARY

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean has offered her residence at 2020 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, to war veterans at a club house.

The Massachusetts avenue home of the fascinating Mrs. McLean, Washington's most exciting hostess, has been used for the past few years as a Red Cross center. Now Mrs. McLean thinks the need of the hundreds of returning veterans for a central gathering place is so great that the District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross society will be glad to relinquish its occupancy.

The Red Cross society has paid no rent on the house. The taxes, far from small (approximately $20,000 a year), have been carried by Mrs. McLean and will continue to be carried when the veterans take the place over.

Twenty twenty Massachusetts avenue is a fine old house. It was built by Mrs. McLean's father, Thomas F. Walsh, the fabulous bonanza king. Records show the house cost $825,000. Quite a sum of money in 1903, when the mansion was completed and its doors were first opened for an era of elegant hospitality at "The Walsh House."

The Walsh House was then one of the few really luxurious residences in the capital. Its location, on the edge of Dupont Circle, was the smart address of Washington and continues to be an important residence neighborhood.

Tom Walsh spared no dollars and cut no corners in making his Washington home as near a palace as the taste of the day allowed. He went even further than his contemporaries in such handsome features as a very rare crystal chandelier, imported marble mantels

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER (Subbing for Mallon)

BY CHARLES WASHBURN
NEW YORK, July 28—The greatest press agency is accidental. Ninety percent of the ballyhoo that drum beaters get credit and bonuses for is dropped into their laps.

Occasionally a press agent will write a good Sunday piece, but otherwise he is a lucky guy and let's be honest about it, let's go one better and cite examples—my own, for instance:

For 20 years I represented the late George M. Cohan. He was an inspiration and a generous boss. He didn't want a press agent, but, inasmuch as other showmen had them, he took me for laughs. And then we both wound up working for the Theater Guild with "Ah, Wilderness!" Then it became a case of going on tour and trying to hit page one. I had no ideas. Maybe I never had any.

At any rate, Cohan suggested that we play a town of 500 called North Brookfield, Mass. It was like a home town and the place in which, as a boy, Cohan had written his first lone hit, "Veus, My Shining Star." So it was practically a sentimental journey and we were not aiming to get into the papers.

But a Eugene O'Neill play, plus Cohan, the Theater Guild, a New York smash success and the fact that the town never before had been given any kind of a traveling show stirred the imagination of the editors.

The Boston Post, the first to hear about the event, put the story on page one. Then the press agent sat back and did nothing. Every major news service carried the story of Cohan playing "Ah, Wilderness!" in North Brookfield's town hall. Hundreds of papers put it on page one. It was a sentimental thing and no press agent that season got the acclaim I did. Strictly accidental.

And Cohan cracked: "Stick with me, kid, and I'll make you famous."

When Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne revised (and revived) "The Taming Of The Shrew" and were worried because they felt Shakespearean fans would take them to task, up popped an old student with the proof that the bard had considered "The Shrew" his poorest work. This little tidbit made all the drama sections and to this day Lunt thinks I'm a great Shakespearean scholar. I blush as I admit for the first time that the information was handed to me without effort and without one ounce of personal research.

The late John Barrymore was a natural. He would go into a cafe and kiss the photo of his father, Maurice. He would make wise cracks from the stage, such as, while the fire engines clanged on the street: "My wife must be in town." He would kiss girl reporters. He would rejoin a wife suing him for divorce. He was news. I was the wonder man. What did I have to do with it? Nothing, just nothing.

The most recent accident was the cover of a famous picture magazine featuring Carol Lynne, skater in "Hats Off To Ice."

The photographer wanted a trick picture in which every movement of the leaps would be shown. We tried almost everything. No dice. Then the photographer suggested he could get the outline of the girl's jumps if she had lights on the toes of her skates while performing on a dark stage. None of the masterminds could figure out how to do this so the photographer suggested strapping two ordinary flash-

Shock Chief Accident Danger

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
FIRST aid means the giving of immediate treatment to someone who has suffered an accident, or is suddenly ill. It is emergency treatment, and is usually carried out by someone other than a doctor.

It is important that first aid be properly given so that it may be as beneficial as possible without further aggravating the disorder that is present.

Chief Dangers

One of the chief dangers in accidents is the development of shock or collapse. In treating shock, it is important to keep the patient warm, with sufficient covering, the use of hot water bottles if they are available, and a warm drink. The next thing to think about is getting the patient to a hospital as quickly as possible.

Hence, a well-instructed "first-aid" will have someone send for an ambulance immediately, so that he will not be placed in the embarrassing position of waiting around with the patient, after all first-aid treatment is given, until an ambulance can arrive to take the patient to a hospital.

Broken Bones

In the case of broken bones, the outstanding necessity is that the patient must not be moved until the affected part of the body has been firmly fixed, so that movement will not cause the ends of the bone to protrude through the skin

Eleonore Lawrence, Air Raid Defense Center worker in Sweetsburg—a town humming with war industry and rumors of saboteurs—has been the recipient of spy exposure books, and wonders who the anonymous sender is. She secretly hopes it might be William Steuben, a friend of her brother Arthur, who had visited the Lawrence months ago, but from whom she had heard nothing since. One of the air raid officials showed distinguished looking B. Stead Jones how the Center operates. The Lawrence household consists of "Grandma" Lawrence; Suey, Eleonore's small sister; and Mamie, maid of all work. Eleonore's brothers, Arthur and Eben, are in the Navy and Coast Guard respectively. Eleonore learned from Fannie Edgerly, real estate agent, that the adjoining Wolfe estate has been leased by B. Stead Jones. She is visited by John Sabirski, member of America's Counter Intelligence Corps, who enlists her aid. He explains that one of their agents, planted in a group of aliens nearby, was having difficulty getting his reports out, so it was arranged that he would place the coded messages in crumpled cigarette packets and leave them at designated places near the Lawrence home. Eleonore's job is to retrieve and mail the messages to a certain address. Eleonore discovers Grandma eavesdropping, but the latter swears she will keep mum.

"You mean for next summer?"

"No, right now, the first of April if you can leave then. B. Stead Jones—oh, he's a lovely man—wants this place for some close friends who are going to move from Washington."

"This isn't commuting distance from Washington?"

"Well, maybe they're from New York, I don't remember—but eighteen hundred a year these days isn't picked up often." Fannie cast a canny nod toward Mrs. Lawrence who, with folded arms, was bent forward looking at the floor. "Your move to town, with new furniture to buy and rents galloping. Just tell Mr. Jones, sorry, but we can't oblige!" Then she added, "After all the commission won't make much difference in your budget!"

"Bedstead" Jones, "Beefsteak" Jones, thought Eleonore. Our little ten acres fitted into the Wolfe three hundred and sixty like a very thin sliver. He must want some rich cronies to alleviate the boredom of country life! Further up the mountain was the Pettis summer home, occupied only through July and August. Why didn't Mr. Jones try to take that? It was far more modern and the Pettis would be interested in a year's lease, probably.

"Your grandma wants to go to town, don't you Mrs. Lawrence?" persisted Fannie.

"Who?—me?" Gran straightened herself. "Why should I, now that we have neighbors again? Another thing, I'm not going to have renting strangers rummaging through my attic!"

A padlock on the attic door would avoid that, Fannie pointed out; but she knew when she was beaten and her departure was much less effervescent than her arrival.

Eleonore took her grandmother's crosscrossed face between her hands and kissed her.

Mrs. Lawrence jerked away but she looked pleased.

"Notice," said Mamie softly that night when Eleonore dried the dishes for her, "how much better your grandma is feeling. She's so spry and happy the last few days! I think it's that tonic the doctor left her."

"I've noticed it too," said Eleonore, without adding that a new interest in life had been Gran's medicine.

WHICH HOLDS THE ACE?

SUCCESS of many a contract depends on a simple guess, or rather, estimate of which defender is more likely to hold a particular outstanding card. That is especially so as regards an ace or a queen. With the queen out against you, it is usually a problem of which direction a finesse should be taken. With the ace missing, you don't want to play the suit so that it will kill off either your king or your queen, as thereby you may set up the jack or ten for your foes. Your effort should be to try to make the ace-holder play it when it can knock off nothing but a little spot card.

MODEST HEROES

AMERICANS used to be known as braggarts, and there may have been a time when a lot of them deserved such a reputation. But you don't find much of it in this war. The fellows who have done notable things, or endured things no less notable, are more likely to conceal them than brag about them. Here is an interesting case in point, concerning two brothers. When they came home and were sought by a news man who knew their record, this is what happened.

John was limping, but when he went with his family to meet his brother Chuck, he wasn't wearing the four battle stars or the purple heart ribbon, and he didn't want to talk about his record at all. When reporters insisted, he just passed them on to Chuck to hear something worth while. And Chuck himself was no more communicative. All he would say was: "John really must have had it tough. I worried about him all the time. I always knew the Pacific theater was the worst."

And so you find it among the war veterans in general. They may be a little more outspoken about their records as they grow older, but there is little of such a tendency now. It is a fine trait, yet unfortunate in a way. If the veterans won't talk about their war experiences, but try to conceal them, how are other people going to find out? And these records are well worth knowing, now and hereafter.

HIGH PRICES

BLACK markets by their very nature tends to run into big money but they are phenomenal in Germany just now. Recent quotations from Berlin have shown butter selling at the incredible price of $188 a pound, with sugar quoted at $30 a pound, coffee $140, tea $190, and a loaf of bread $10. A single cigaret costs $4, and a cigar $5, while a suit of clothes will run to $1,000 or $2,000.

And do the Allied nations pity them, and pour out sympathy and victuals to ease their hardship? Not by a jug full! There is no more such softness among the Allies—with special reference to us Americans—as there was after the last war. The American attitude now is, "they have made their bed and must lie in it." Or in more literal terms: they have slaughtered and impoverished their neighbors; let them take the consequences.

A language critic says people shouldn't say they have an "inferiority complex" when they're just modest.

Somebody complains that there's so much news in the paper, he can't get it read; so probably people will have to stop doing things.

McLean House Offered
For Gl's Capital Club

Red Cross Society Now
Occupies Old Mansion

By HELEN ESSARY

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean has offered her residence at 2020 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, to war veterans at a club house.

The Massachusetts avenue home of the fascinating Mrs. McLean, Washington's most exciting hostess, has been used for the past few years as a Red Cross center. Now Mrs. McLean thinks the need of the hundreds of returning veterans for a central gathering place is so great that the District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross society will be glad to relinquish its occupancy.

The Red Cross society has paid no rent on the house. The taxes, far from small (approximately $20,000 a year), have been carried by Mrs. McLean and will continue to be carried when the veterans take the place over.

Twenty twenty Massachusetts avenue is a fine old house. It was built by Mrs. McLean's father, Thomas F. Walsh, the fabulous bonanza king. Records show the house cost $835,000. Quite a sum of money in 1903, when the mansion was completed and its doors were first opened for an era of elegant hospitality at "The Walsh House."

The Walsh House was then one of the few really luxurious residences in the capital. Its location, on the edge of Dupont Circle, was an important address of Washington and continues to be an important residence neighborhood.

Tom Walsh spared no dollars and cut no corners in making his Washington home as near a palace as the taste of the day allowed. He went even further than his contemporaries in such handsome features as a very rare crystal chandelier, imported marble mantels

BY CHARLES WASHBURN

NEW YORK, July 28—The greatest press agency is accidental. Ninety percent of the ballyhoo that drum beaters get credit and bonuses for is dropped into their laps.

Occasionally a press agent will write a good Sunday piece, but otherwise he is a lucky guy and let's be honest about it, let's go one better and cite examples—my own, for instance:

For 20 years I represented the late George M. Cohan. He was an inspiration and a generous boss. He didn't want a press agent, but, inasmuch as other showmen had them, he took me for laughs. And then we both wound up working for the Theater Guild with "Ah, Wilderness!" Then it became a case of going on tour and trying to hit page one. I had no ideas. Maybe I never had any.

At any rate, Cohan suggested that we play a town of 500 called North Brookfield, Mass. It was like a home town and the place in which, as a boy, Cohan had written his first lone hit, "Veus, My Shining Star." So it was practically a sentimental journey and we were not aiming to get into the papers.

But a Eugene O'Neill play, plus Cohan, the Theater Guild, a New York smash success and the fact that the town never before had been given any kind of a traveling show stirred the imagination of the editors.

The Boston Post, the first to hear about the event, put the story on page one. Then the press agent sat back and did nothing. Every major news service carried the story of Cohan playing "Ah, Wilderness!" in North Brookfield's town hall. Hundreds of papers put it on page one. It was a sentimental thing and no press agent that season got the acclaim I did. Strictly accidental.

And Cohan cracked: "Stick with me, kid, and I'll make you famous."

When Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne revised (and revived) "The Taming Of The Shrew" and were worried because they felt Shakespearean fans would take them to task, up popped an old student with the proof that the bard had considered "The Shrew" his poorest work. This little tidbit made all the drama sections and to this day Lunt thinks I'm a great Shakespearean scholar. I blush as I admit for the first time that the information was handed to me without effort and without one ounce of personal research.

The late John Barrymore was a natural. He would go into a cafe and kiss the photo of his father, Maurice. He would make wise cracks from the stage, such as, while the fire engines clanged on the street: "My wife must be in town." He would kiss girl reporters. He would rejoin a wife suing him for divorce. He was news. I was the wonder man. What did I have to do with it? Nothing, just nothing.

The most recent accident was the cover of a famous picture magazine featuring Carol Lynne, skater in "Hats Off To Ice."

The photographer wanted a trick picture in which every movement of the leaps would be shown. We tried almost everything. No dice. Then the photographer suggested he could get the outline of the girl's jumps if she had lights on the toes of her skates while performing on a dark stage. None of the masterminds could figure out how to do this so the photographer suggested strapping two ordinary flash-

DIET AND HEALTH

Shock Chief Accident Danger

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

FIRST aid means the giving of immediate treatment to someone who has suffered an accident, or is suddenly ill. It is emergency treatment, and is usually carried out by someone other than a doctor.

It is important that first aid be properly given so that it may be as beneficial as possible without further aggravating the disorder that is present.

Chief Dangers

One of the chief dangers in accidents is the development of shock or collapse. In treating shock, it is important to keep the patient warm, with sufficient covering, the use of hot water bottles if they are available, and a warm drink. The next thing to think about is getting the patient to a hospital as quickly as possible.

Hence, a well-instructed "first-aid" will have someone send for an ambulance immediately, so that he will not be placed in the embarrassing position of waiting around with the patient, after all first-aid treatment is given, until an ambulance can arrive to take the patient to a hospital.

Broken Bones

In the case of broken bones, the outstanding necessity is that the patient must not be moved until the affected part of the body has been firmly fixed, so that movement will not cause the ends of the bone to protrude through the skin or be further injured. The presence of a broken bone can usually be determined by the presence of pain, loss of muscle power, swelling, and tenderness. The method used to fix the bones to prevent movement will depend on where the broken bones are located. However, splints can be made of rolled newspapers or some piece of wood that may be handy.

In first-aid treatment of severe burns, little need be done except to make the patient as comfortable as possible and then to remove him speedily to a hospital. If there is to be any great delay in getting the patient to a hospital, some antiseptic, perhaps, may be applied without any attempt being made to clean the burned area first.

Stop Bleeding

In the case of wounds, of course, the first object is to stop the bleeding. This may be accomplished by direct pressure on the wound with a pad of gauze and bandage. If this does not suffice, a tourniquet may be applied. It is made up of a piece of rubber tubing or some other material which can be wrapped around an arm or leg above the wound and then twisted until it is tight enough to check the flow of blood. However, a tourniquet can be left in place only for a short period of time. Obviously, cutting off the flow of blood too long may serve to produce permanent damage to the tissues leading to the development of gangrene or death of the tissues.

Eleonore's job is to retrieve and mail the messages to a certain address. Eleonore discovers Grandma eavesdropping, but the latter swears she will keep mum.

CHAPTER FIVE

Three mornings later Grandma came in from the yard and put a crumpled cigarette package into Eleonore's hand. In her room Eleonore straightened out the twisted packet, carefully removed the white paper inside. On it were a series of numbers, dashes between, written in lead pencil. It was the first report. She enclosed it in an envelope, sealed and addressed it, then slipped it in her bag. Later today she would mail it at the postoffice.

Downstairs Eleonore could hear Grandma welcoming Fannie Edgerly, who was overflowing with tiny laughter and apologies for coming "before breakfast." The roads were frightful, just like glass. Two cars were in the ditch on Serpent Hill. Eleonore went down. "Hello, Fannie, nice you dropped in on Blue Monday."

Fannie threw out her plump arms dramatically. "Come here and kiss me! I've good news for you!"

"Good news?"

"El'ner, I've rented your house for you—at a good price!"

"Rented this house? Why—what's that? We hadn't talked of renting."

"Your grandma did, and of course you want to; eight miles from town you'll be penned up in no time with gas so hard to get. Your oil bills must be terrible and you don't need so much room. Also," Fannie nodded her head, "a hundred and fifty dollars furnished is a good price if you ask me!"

Eleonore sat down. After her father died the family had discussed the desirability of selling the house and of taking a place in town, but had decided against it.

"You mean for next summer?"

"No, right now, the first of April if you can leave then. B. Stead Jones—oh, he's a lovely man—wants this place for some close friends who are going to move up from Washington."

Eleonore shook her head. "I doubt if we could better ourselves. The furnace won't be going much longer. If the tires give out we can walk to the main road for a bus, or bicycle there. Have you seen the places in town for rent? They're not cheap."

"Don't be silly," declared Fannie. "What does a pretty girl like you want of the lonesome old country?—no movies, no dances."

Eleonore smiled. "I've been looking forward to spring here—you know I haven't been in the Berkshires in spring for years. Then I'm sentimentally attached to this house."

Fannie looked glum and her voice sharpened. "Look at it from a business angle! . . . Maybe I'll sound crude and all that, but your father's estate was published in the paper in the court news, and you can't afford this big place. It needs painting and repairing right now."

"Don't make me wince over our shabbiness! I admit it, Fannie, but I would say we couldn't afford to

God's Promise of a Nation
HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 29 is Genesis 17, 18, the Memory Verse being Genesis 12:2, "I will bless thee . . . and be thou a blessing.")

ABRAHAM—whose name has heretofore been spelled Abram—was 99 years old when our lesson today begins. He was an old man when God appeared to him and said, "I am the mighty God; walk before Me, and be thou perfect."

That seems to be expecting a great deal of a man, but that is what true Christians should strive to be—perfect. Abraham fell on his face before God and the Lord told him that he was to be the father of many nations. "Neither shall thy name be Abram any more, but thy name shall be Abraham," adding an H, one of the radical letters of the name JHVH, which is translated Jehovah. His wife's name was then changed to be Sarah, not Sarai, as heretofore—also adding the sacred letter.

Abraham was to keep the Lord's covenant, and according to this covenant every male child was to be circumcised, the infant when he was eight days old. Of Sarah, Abraham's wife, the Lord said, "And I will bless her, and give thee a son also of her; and she shall be the mother of nations; kings of people shall be of her."

In his heart, Abraham laughed at this prophecy, as Sarah and he were both old. In the previous chapter of Genesis, the story of Sarah and her handmaid, Hagar, an Egyptian, is told. Sarah so much desired a child that she told her husband to have one by Hagar, which he did. But when this child was to be born and named Ishmael, Hagar despised her mistress and things became so unpleasant that Hagar ran away. The Lord found her wandering in the wilderness and sent her back to Abraham's tent, telling her to submit herself to her mistress. There Ishmael was born, and at this time he was 13 years old, and Abraham was evidently very fond of him.

Lord Blesses Ishmael
Abraham spoke of this boy, and the Lord promised to bless him and make a great nation from him. "Twelve princes shall be begotten of him."

God's Promise of a Nation

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 29 is Genesis 17, 18, the Memory Verse being Genesis 12:2, "I will bless thee . . . and be thou a blessing.")

ABRAHAM—whose name has heretofore been spelled Abram—was 99 years old when our lesson today begins. He was an old man when God appeared to him and said, "I am the mighty God; walk before Me, and be thou perfect."

That seems to be expecting a great deal of a man, but that is what true Christians should strive to be—perfect. Abraham fell on his face before God and the Lord told him that he was to be the father of many nations. "Neither shall thy name be Abram any more, but thy name shall be Abraham," adding an H, one of the radical letters of the name JHVH, which is translated Jehovah. His wife's name was thenceforth to be Sarah, not Sarai, as heretofore—also adding the sacred letter.

Abraham was to keep the Lord's covenant, and according to this covenant every male child was to be circumcised, the infant when he was eight days old. Of Sarah, Abraham's wife, the Lord said, "And I will bless her, and give thee a son also of her; and she shall be the mother of nations; kings of people shall be of her."

In his heart, Abraham laughed at this prophecy, as Sarah and he were both old. In the previous chapter of Genesis, the story of Sarah and her handmaiden, Hagar, an Egyptian, is told. Sarah so much desired a child that she told her husband to have one by Hagar, which he did. But when this child was to be born and named Ishmael, Hagar despised her mistress and things became so unpleasant that Hagar ran away. The Lord found her wandering in the wilderness and sent her back to Abraham's tent, telling her to submit herself to her mistress. There Ishmael was born, and at this time he was 13 years old, and Abraham was evidently very fond of him.

Lord Blesses Ishmael

Abraham spoke of this boy, and the Lord promised to bless him and make a great nation from him. "Twelve princes shall be of him."

get," the Lord promised.

"But My covenant will I establish with Isaac"—which was to be the name of Sarah's son—said the Lord.

One day Abraham was sitting at the tent door in the heat of the day, when he saw three men approaching. Abraham went to meet them and asked them to his tent, saying he would have water for them to wash their feet and food for them to refresh themselves. He undoubtedly realized they were not ordinary travelers, but the Lord and two angels.

They accepted his hospitality and ate the food that was prepared for them. Afterwards they asked where Sarah was. "Behold, in the tent," Abraham answered. Again the promise of a child was repeated, and Sarah, hearing it as she stood partly concealed by the tent door, laughed to herself because she thought such a thing could not be.

"And the Lord said unto Abraham, Wherefore didst Sarah laugh, saying, Shall I of a surety bear a child, which am old?"

"Is anything too hard for the Lord?" Sarah denied she had laughed, being frightened.

Threaten to Destroy Cities

The men then rose and looked toward the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah and the Lord said they were wicked cities and He was going to see if they really were as wicked as had been reported. Abraham went with them as the Lord had said, "Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do?" Lot, Abraham's kinsman, lived in or near Sodom, you remember, but Abraham did not mention him when he asked the Lord, "Wilt Thou destroy the righteous with the wicked?" Suppose, he said, that fifty righteous persons should be found. The Lord said He would spare the city for the sake of the 50.

Asking forbearance of the Lord for his boldness, but without fear, five more times Abraham interceded for the few righteous persons who might live in these cities. If there were 45 good, or 40, 30, 20, even 10, would they perish with the guilty? No, said the Lord, if there were but 10 guiltless ones the city would be spared.

"And the Lord went His way, as soon as He had left communing with Abraham; and Abraham returned to his place."

First U. B. TO HAVE NO NIGHT SERVICE SUNDAY

"Under the Juniper Tree" will be the sermon subject of the Rev. J. E. Huston at the First United Brethren church Sunday morning.

There will be no evening worship service Sunday evening. Next Sunday, August 5, there will be Sunday school but no morning or evening worship service will be held so that all who wish may have an opportunity to attend the last day of the Stoutsville camp meeting.

Frequently laundered foundation garments last long, look better, and keep the wearer dainty. The new synthetic rubber girdles, of which corselettes and panty girdles are now made, is another good reason for tubing them frequently. Synthetic rubber is very efficient, but is not quite so elastic as natural rubber and does not snap back to shape so quickly after being stretched. A soap and water cleaning causes the elastic to "tighten up," and is a quick, easy way to bring a foundation back to a snug fit which gives the wearer more support, control and comfort.

MISS SCHREINER PRESBYTERIAN GUEST SOLOIST

Miss Rosemary Schreiner, a member of the Lutheran church, will be guest soloist Sunday during the worship hour in the Presbyterian church. Miss Schreiner will sing the solo, "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

The Rev. Carl Kennedy will preach on the theme, "The God Who Made Us and the Gods that Dominate Us" (Jeremiah 2:28 & 16:20).

Miss Abbe Mills Clark will play these organ compositions: "Liebestraum" by Liszt, "Cradle Song" by Brahms, and "Postlude in C" by Stults.

Church Briefs

The subject of the Rev. G. L. Troutman's sermon Sunday morning at Trinity Lutheran church will be "Blessed Discovery of God's Abiding Presence". The text will be taken from Genesis 28:16.

There will be no evening worship service Sunday evening at the First United Brethren church.

A church vestry meeting will be held in the Trinity Lutheran parish house at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday.

There will be Sunday School at the regular time Sunday, August 5, at the First United Brethren church, but no morning or evening worship services will be held so that all who wish may attend the last day of Stoutsville camp meeting.

During the month of August the Presbyterian church will remain closed. The Rev. Carl Kennedy will preach on August 5 in the First Presbyterian church in Washington C. H. and on August 12 he will be guest pastor in the First church in Walnut Hills, Cincinnati.

Lutheran Brotherhood outdoor meeting will be held at the country home of the Rev. G. L. Troutman at 6:30 p. m. Thursday.

The male youth of the church Brotherhood will be guests. Gladys Lockard and Roy Stout are in charge of a special program in which youth present will compete against Brotherhood members.

St. Philip's Episcopal church will be closed during August.

'WHAT MAY I BELIEVE' TOPIC AT FIRST CHURCH

"What May I Believe" is the sermon topic chosen for Sunday morning by the Rev. Clarence Swearingen.

The quartet will sing "Still, Still With Thee," by Jacobson. A vocal solo, "Jesus Only," will be sung by Mrs. Clifford Heimlich. Miss Jeannette Wenrich will be at the organ console.

lights to her shoes. It worked and there was the cover.

For four years the ice shows in the center theatre had been trying to crash the cover of this magazine. Upwards of $3,000 had been spent for stagehands' overtime in an attempt to get unusual pictures. Nothing happened. And then, with two flashlights and three stagehands, total cost about $25, a miracle was performed.

And I was called a genius, a wonder boy!

Press agency, I fear, is an over-rated profession. But don't let the bosses read this. They think I'm good.

MOVIE-ACTRESS WEDS FORMER FOOTBALL STAR

PHYLLIS BROOKS, the movie actress, and LT. Torbert Hart (Torbie) MacDonald, former Harvard football star, were married quietly at Tarrytown, N. Y., last month, according to a disclosure in New York. Miss Brooks said she met the former Harvard backfield ace in Hollywood after he returned from two years of overseas service as commander of a PT boat squadron. (International)

NELSON NEARS ALL-AMERICAN TITLE, RECORD

CHICAGO, July 28—Two men of the past were virtually the only threats today to Byron Nelson's relentless drive toward his fourth All-American golf championship and a new tournament record.

One was sprightly little Gene Sarazen, a golfing great of another era, and the other was hulking Ralph Guldahl, one of the game's most tragic figures.

Nelson, bidding for his fourth victory in the five year history of the All-Americans, was at the head of the 136 man field with a 36-hole total of 134 strokes, 10 under par. Although he complained that his ailing back was still bothering him, Nelson shot a four under par yesterday to extend his lead to four strokes over Sarazen with 18 holes left today and the final 18 tomorrow.

The ruddy-faced, powerful Texan needs only a 72-71 on the final two rounds to better the record 278 strokes with which he won the 1941 All-American open.

Yet those two forgotten men—Sarazen and Guldahl—had a chance to catch him.

Sarazen, now 43, shot a hot 68 yesterday—highlighted by a hole-in-one—for a 36 hole total of 138 strokes. He had the heart and the game, but whether he has the stamina to overtake Nelson is something else.

Guldahl, who won the National Open in 1937 and 1938 and the Master's in 1939, then faded into oblivion, yesterday came out of nowhere to tie the Tam O'Shanter course record with a 29-36-65 for 139 strokes. Never in recorded tournament history has there been a first nine to equal the one Guldahl shot when he shaved seven strokes off of par by firing an eagle, five birdies and the rest par.

PRICE CONTROLS ON ALL FISHING TACKLE LIFTED

WASHINGTON, July 28—All fishing tackle except rods, reels, non-metallic lines and nets will be removed from price control August 2, Office of Price Administration announced today.

Lines, hooks, snelled hooks, stringers, scalers, floats, swivels and sinkers are among the items which will be exempted from control, since sales of these items do not affect the cost of living, OPA said.

ALL STARS DROP 7-3 CONTEST TO 740 AC TEAM

Visitors Get Only Five Hits
But Walks Are Costly;
Locals Hit Truss

All Stars managed to collect 10 hits from the offerings of Smitty Truss but bowed 7-3 to the 740 AC team from Columbus Friday night in an exhibition game at Ted Lewis park.

Each team collected a run in the first inning, then the visitors went out in front to stay in the second inning. Two runs were scored without a hit, four walks and an error making it easy. Three more came in the fourth when three walks filled the bases and Truss hit a double. The last run was scored in the eighth on a walk and hit.

After allowing the first inning run on a walk to Dean and hit by Shaw Truss kept his fast and slow ball working to advantage and allowed no runs until the eighth. Four hits accounted for two markers for the locals.

The visitors got only five hits off Easter and Hobbie but 12 walks made run-scoring comparatively easy.

For four years the ice shows in the center theatre had been trying to crash the cover of this magazine. Upwards of $3,000 had been spent for stagehands' overtime in an attempt to get unusual pictures. Nothing happened. And then, with two flashlights and three stagehands, total cost about $25, a miracle was performed.

And I was called a genius, a wonder boy!

Press agency, I fear, is an over-rated profession. But don't let the bosses read this. They think I'm good.

MOVIE-ACTRESS WEDS FORMER FOOTBALL STAR

PHYLLIS BROOKS, the movie actress, and Lt. Robert Hart (Torbie) MacDonald, former Harvard football star, were married quietly at Tarrytown, N. Y., last month, according to a disclosure in New York. Miss Brooks said she met the former Harvard backfield ace in Hollywood after he returned from two years of overseas service as commander of a PT boat squadron.

NELSON NEARS ALL-AMERICAN TITLE, RECORD

CHICAGO, July 28—Two men of the past were virtually the only threats today to Byron Nelson's relentless drive toward his fourth All-American golf championship and a new tournament record.

One was sprightly little Gene Sarazen, a golfing great of another era, and the other was hulking Ralph Guldahl, one of the game's most tragic figures.

Nelson, bidding for his fourth victory in the five year history of the All-Americans, was at the head of the 136 man field with a 36-hole total of 134 strokes, 10 under par. Although he complained that his ailing back was still bothering him, Nelson shot a four under par yesterday to extend his lead to four strokes over Sarazen with 18 holes left today and the final 18 tomorrow.

The ruddy-faced, powerful Texan needs only a 72-71 on the final two rounds to better the record 278 strokes with which he won the 1941 All-American open.

Yet those two forgotten men—Sarazen and Guldahl—had a chance to catch him.

Sarazen, now 43, shot a hot 68 yesterday—highlighted by a hole-in-one—for a 36 hole total of 138 strokes. He had the heart and the game, but whether he has the stamina to overtake Nelson is something else.

Guldahl, who won the National Open in 1937 and 1938 and the Master's in 1939, then faded into oblivion, yesterday came out of nowhere to tie the Tam O'Shanter course record with a 29-36-65 for 139 strokes. Never in recorded tournament history has there been a first nine to equal the one Guldahl shot when he shaved seven strokes off of par by firing an eagle, five birdies and the rest par.

BUY WAR BONDS

DODGERS HOME, TRY FOR LEAD

Cubs Cop 10th Straight Victory From Reds; Indians Win

NEW YORK, July 28—Back in the friendly, noisy confines of Ebbets Field, where they have everything from Hilda Chester's Cowbells to Gladys Gooding's pipe organ to cheer them on, the Brooklyn Dodgers were set today to make a serious bid for the pennant.

All season the experts have insisted that they couldn't do it and they have confounded them by doing it anyway. Now, the showdown stage has been reached and the burden of proof is strictly on the shoulders of Manager Leo Durocher's "ferocious gentlemen."

Five and a half games behind the pace-setting Chicago Cubs and a game and a half behind second place St. Louis, the Dodgers play each of the weaker eastern clubs before going up against the more potent western teams again.

They opened their four game stand at home yesterday against the Braves and did it successfully, winning, 3 to 2, behind rookie Ralph Branca's pitching. It was their sixth victory in 10 games against the Braves this year and their 26th against nine defeats in the East.

The Dodgers have beaten the Giants eight times against four defeats and have beaten the last place Phils 12 out of 13. But against western teams, the trend has been the other way with 24 wins and 30 losses.

While Brooklyn is playing in the East, Chicago and St. Louis will be playing the tougher western teams.

All of the old crowd welcomed the Dodgers yesterday including Miss Chester, the number one feminine fan and Miss Gooding, the "maestras of the ball park organ. Typically, the Dodgers came from behind, scoring all their runs in the eighth after an error. Dixie Walker doubled home two runs off relief pitcher Morton Cooper.

The Cubs won their 10th straight from Cincinnati, 2 to 1, in the ninth when three singles brought in the winning run for Claude Passeau's 11th victory. Bucky Walters lost his first game in six starts.

Pickaway County School System Needs 16 More Teachers

ALL VACANCIES EXPECTED TO BE FILLED QUICKLY

Only Slight Increase Seen In Enrollment For Coming Season

With three days to go until the final day for accepting resignations from the Pickaway county school system, George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, stated that the system was short of 16 teachers in its high and grammar schools.

Without additional resignations, Mr. McDowell stated, there is a good possibility that most of the positions will have been filled by August 1, the deadline for resignations.

The sixteen vacancies here are among the more than 6,000 that exist all over Ohio. The state school system is 15 percent short of its 41,000 peace time teacher employment.

Fortunately, the superintendent added, the enrollment in the Pickaway county school will be only slightly higher than in the past few years. He said he expected an increase of from 1/4 of 1 percent to 1 percent increase. The 1945-46 enrollment will be approximately 3,500.

The county teaching staff will include 153 teachers when completed. This number will include vocational, fine arts and academic instructors, Mr. McDowell pointed out.

Teachers who recently accepted positions with the Pickaway county school system for the coming year include:

Monroe Township, Herman A. Lewis, Waverly, teach English, Mathematics, physical science, social science and Latin; Scioto Township, Mrs. Betsy Alsberg, Columbus, teach social science, English, dramatics, girls' physical education; Thomas E. Wolfe, New Lexington, teach boys' physical education, coach the boys' teams and teach fine arts; Muhlenberg Township, Mrs. Charles Ridgway, Derby, teach grades 7 and 8 and serve as principal of school; and Mrs. June Hanawalt Sheets, Scioto Township, to teach grades 5 and 6.

Walnut Township, Miss Lillian Bauer, Waverly, teach English; William A. Stubbs, Barnesville, teach science, mathematics, boys' physical education and coach, been defense worker for 4 years; Madison Township, Mrs. Thelma Bischoff, Portsmouth.

The school calendar indicates that September 4 is the date for the opening of the next school term. Mr. McDowell said, subject to the approval of the county board of education.

AERIAL VIEWS OF NEW YORK HARBOR FOUND

BERLIN, July 28—Aerial pictures of New York Harbor taken secretly during the famous flights of the Hindenburg and the Graf Zeppelin before the war have been found in underground vaults belonging to the Luftwaffe, it was revealed today.

Col. Henry Pool, (160 Butler St.) Kingston, Pa., deputy director of the U. S. Occupation Forces' Air Division, said the Luftwaffe vaults were found in the American zone of Germany, with a dozen German workmen still guarding them.

In addition to detailed photographs and motion pictures of New York Harbor, the vaults also contained slides and motion picture films of every yard of Great Britain.

Most of the pictures dated back to 1938.

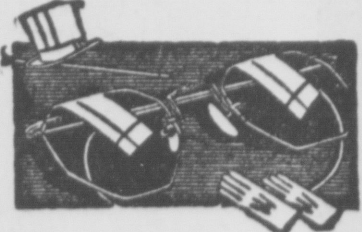

Alois in the vaults were documentary films on the development of the Luftwaffe, as well as the Hollywood picture "Victory Through Airpower" and a strip of "Gone With The Wind."

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Private First Class Robert O. Howard, nephew of Mrs. John Riley and Frank Howard of Circleville, has been awarded the Bronze Star for bravery in action.

A combat medic, he advanced beyond the aid station on Mt. Matuba, Philippines Islands, under sniper and artillery fire and over extremely rough terrain, to administer first aid and evacuate the wounded to the rear.

He is a member of company C, 6th Medical battalion, which is part of the 6th Division fighting on Luzon since early January. His division has broken the record for continuous days of combat, with 112 consecutive days on the front line.

Howard joined the 6th division in July of 1943, and has participated in two previous campaigns, at Maffin Bay and Sanspor, New Guinea. He is also credited with having killed one Jap while on detached service as aid with the Infantry.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howard of Columbus, where his father is a special investigator in the Department of Inspection and Identification of the Engineers at the Columbus Army Service depot. He formerly was employed with the Union company.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ballard, Tarlton, have received this new address from their son: Franklyn E. Ballard, seaman second class, 5707456, 4-46 Pre-Sonar, Radio Code School, USNJC, San Diego, 33, California.

Lieutenant Walter Osborne sends this new address: Lt. Walter S. Osborne, Class 745, Sq. 1, BAAF, Fort Myers, Florida.

William Burget's mother has received this address from him: Pvt. First Class William C. Burget, 35298731, 506 Parachute Infantry Service Company, APO 472, c-o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Mrs. Loring Evans, East Main street, received this address from her son: Corporal Emmet M. Evans, 35624455, Ward C-9, Fitzsimmons General hospital, Denver, Colorado.

Robert C. Teal, son of Mrs. William Teal, 332 West Huston street, has been promoted to corporal. His address is Corporal Robert C. Teal, 35985082, Headquarters Detachment, 33rd ITR, Camp Livingston, La.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Downs of Jackson township have received this address from their son: Private Joe E. Downs, 35887672, Service Company, 710 Tank Battalion, APO 81, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, California.

T/3 Frank R. Dunlap, son of Walter Dunlap, Route 2, Circleville, a member of the 131 FA battalion, and a veteran of the 36th Texas Division, has been awarded the Bronze Arrowhead to wear on his European Theatre of Operations ribbon. The Arrowhead has been awarded for participation in the Salerno-Riviera invasion when he made the D-Day amphibious assault.

The 36th Infantry Division has seen action on two D-Day invasions—Italy and Southern France. To its credit are such battles as San Pietro and Cassino, the Rapido River and Anzio.

Master Sergeant Anthony L. Wojciak, 624 South Court street, arrived at Indiantown Gap Reception center Thursday for redeployment to the Pacific, preceded by a 30-day furlough at home.

Sergeant Donald E. Morris, 528 East Union street, was honorably discharged from the Army at the Indiantown Gap Separation Center Thursday.

Another dischargee at Indiantown Gap Thursday was Sergeant Charles R. Buzzard, Route 3, Circleville.

LASKI PROMISES END HANDS OFF SPANISH POLICY

LONDON, July 28 — Britain's hands off policy in Spain is now finished, Harold Laski, chairman of the victorious Labor party's executive committee, told the United Press today.

Laski said, "We cannot leave plague spots in Europe. We intend to use our influence to erase those plague spots. Above all, the plague spot represented by Generalissimo (Francisco) Franco's regime. The period of non-intervention is over."

Informed sources said the sweeping British Labor victory was the heaviest shock that Franco has sustained since the Axis went on the military downgrade, and that it foreshadows an eventual and marked revision of British policy toward Spain.

Informed sources doubted, however, that the new Attlee government will take immediate action in formulating its policy toward Spain because of the necessity of dealing first with broader problems such as the Potsdam conference and domestic issues.

AERIAL VIEWS OF NEW YORK HARBOR FOUND

BERLIN, July 28—Aerial pictures of New York Harbor taken secretly during the famous flights of the Hindenburg and the Graf Zeppelin before the war have been found in underground vaults belonging to the Luftwaffe, it was revealed today.

Col. Henry Pool, (160 Butler St.) Kingston, Pa., deputy director of the U. S. Occupation Forces' Air Division, said the Luftwaffe vaults were found in the American zone of Germany, with a dozen German workmen still guarding them.

In addition to detailed photographs and motion pictures of New York Harbor, the vaults also contained slides and motion picture films of every yard of Great Britain.

Most of the pictures dated back to 1938.

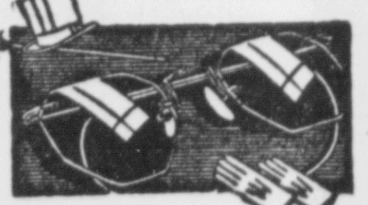

Also in the vaults were documentary films on the development of the Luftwaffe, as well as the Hollywood picture "Victory Through Airpower" and a strip of "Gone With The Wind."

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Private First Class Robert O. Howard, nephew of Mrs. John Riley and Frank Howard of Circleville, has been awarded the Bronze Star for bravery in action.

A combat medic, he advanced beyond the aid station on Mt. Matuba, Philippines Islands, under sniper and artillery fire and over extremely rough terrain, to administer first aid and evacuate the wounded to the rear.

He is a member of company C, 6th Medical battalion, which is part of the 6th Division fighting on Luzon since early January. His division has broken the record for continuous days' of combat, with 112 consecutive days on the front line.

Howard joined the 6th division in July of 1943, and has participated in two previous campaigns, at Maffin Bay and Sanspor, New Guinea. He is also credited with having killed one Jap while on detached service as aid with the Infantry.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howard of Columbus, where his father is a special investigator in the Department of Inspection and Identification of the Engineers at the Columbus Army Service depot. He formerly was employed with the Union company.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ballard, Tarlton, have received this new address from their son: Franklyn E. Ballard, seaman second class, 5707456, 4-46 Pre-Sonar, Radio Code School, USNJC, San Diego, 33, California.

Lieutenant Walter Osborne sends this new address: Lt. Walter S. Osborne, Class 745, Sq. 1, BAAF, Fort Myers, Florida.

William Burget's mother has received this address from him: Pvt. First Class William C. Burget, 35298731, 506 Parachute Infantry Service Company, APO 472, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Mrs. Loring Evans, East Main street, received this address from her son: Corporal Emmet M. Evans, 35624455, Ward C-9, Fitzsimmons General hospital, Denver, Colorado.

LASKI PROMISES END HANDS OFF SPANISH POLICY

LONDON, July 28 — Britain's hands off policy in Spain is now finished, Harold Laski, chairman of the victorious Labor party's executive committee, told the United Press today.

Laski said, "we cannot leave plague spots in Europe. We intend to use our influence to erase those plague spots. Above all, the plague spot represented by Generalissimo (Francisco) Franco's regime. The period of non-intervention is over."

Informed sources said the sweeping British Labor victory was the heaviest shock that Franco has sustained since the Axis went on the military downgrade, and that it foreshadows an eventual and marked revision of British policy toward Spain.

Informed sources doubted, however, that the new Attlee government will take immediate action in formulating its policy toward Spain because of the necessity of dealing first with broader problems such as the Potsdam conference and domestic issues.

FAYETTE COUNTY FAMILY GETS RABIES TREATMENT

WASHINGTON C. H., July 28—Three members of the Alva Mon-gold family were taking Pasteur treatments today because a rabid skunk bit their cow.

County health officials said they feared the infection may have been transmitted in the cow's milk. The cow died.

"And I thought the other folks TALKED MORE on our party line than WE did!"

"One day, you see, I checked our use of the telephone for one hour. Maybe I picked the wrong hour, but here's what happened:

I called Kate to get the molasses cookie recipe 8 minutes
Jim 'phoned that he'd be late for dinner 1/2 minute
Bobbie called Gene about algebra 6 1/2 minutes
I talked to Mrs. Day about Red Cross meeting 12 minutes

During one hour we had the 'phone for 27 minutes

"I wonder what luck the neighbors on our four-family line had during that hour? Oh dear! I'm afraid they have some right to think we use the line more than they do. I'm going to be more careful after this. These days, when more busy people must share more telephone lines, thoughtfulness not only pays its usual dividends—it can help to win the war."
